

Gay werewolves, the symbolic life and religious fundamentalism: concerning similarity and symbol

by Duine Campbell

Saturday 24th April 2021

10:30am - 1:30pm

Zoom Seminar

Duine Campbell's paper attempts to address what has been called 'Dark Religion', the belief system that powers fundamentalist intolerance as it appears in all Faiths. It suggests that the origins of such destructiveness may lie in the difficulty of holding the tension between the material and the mythical.

Halfway through the delivery of this paper there will be a chance for everyone to pool some thoughts around one of the images that is central to Duine's theme. After the paper, there will be a short break followed by a plenary with Duine.

The event, which is free to FiP members and £55 for non-members, will be chaired by Susannah Izzard and will contribute 3 hours of CPD. A certificate to this effect will be emailed to all who attend.

About the speaker: Duine Campbell left his previous incarnation as a Secondary School teacher to join the first intake of the West Midlands Institute of Psychotherapy's Jungian Analytical Training in 1990. Since then, he has enjoyed working as a jobbing therapist in Worcestershire.

About the chair: Susannah Izzard is a psychoanalytic psychotherapist living and working in Suffolk and is a director of FiP.
